In this annual report we have disclosed forward-looking information to enable investors to comprehend our prospects and take informed investment decisions. This report and other statements - written and oral - that we periodically make contain forward-looking statements that set out anticipated results based on the management's plans and assumptions. We have tried wherever possible to identify such statements by using words such as 'anticipate', 'estimate', 'expect', 'project', 'intend', 'plan', 'believe' and words of similar substance in connection with any discussion of future performance. We cannot guarantee that these forward-looking statements will be realised, although we believe we have been prudent in assumptions. The achievement of results is subject to risks, uncertainties and even inaccurate assumptions. Should known or unknown risks or uncertainties materialise, or should underlying assumptions prove inaccurate, actual results could vary materially from those anticipated, estimated or projected. We undertake no obligation to publicly update any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise

Land and water, being finite natural resources, are becoming the limiting factors in food production; the pressure on the agricultural ecosystem is mounting with escalating population, deforestation, urbanization, and increased demand for water. The only way forward is to increase factor productivity in agriculture by adopting modern agricultural practices and application of new technologies. The solution to increase productivity lies in the evolution of 'seed' of high yielding inbred varieties (HYV) and hybrids, as seed is the most critical input in agriculture. The technological advances through innovation in research have enabled farm scientists to improve the quality of seeds due to which the output has improved significantly. Adoption of HYV, shift to hybrid cultivation coupled with crop management practices and increased seed replacement rate raised farm productivity, and farmer's prosperity. Nonetheless, a challenge that looms large is sustainability of gains to ensure food security for millions of people.

Kaveri Seed, with vast experience spanning for more than three decades in the seed and agri-business, is steadfast in its resolve to advance the cause of "Seed the Future" by genetic up-gradation of yield, enriching soil health & ensuring eco-friendly plant-protection through innovation and exploring new vistas to expand the horizons of seed trade.

Breed the best by genetic up-gradation

Food production needs to be doubled by 2050 to meet the projected demands of more than 9 billion people. Boosting crop yields to meet the rising demand is the only option to achieve this goal. An analysis on how crop yields are changing, and, are we on the track to double production by 2050 is revealing. Yields of the top four crops - maize, wheat, rice and soybean are increasing only at the rate of 1.6%, 1.0%, 0.9%, and 1.3% per year, respectively, which is far less than the 2.4% per year required to double production by 2050. Vertical increase in yields per acre and protection of elevated yield potential from destabilizing factors such as biotic and abiotic stresses is the way forward.

Kaveri is in the agri-business of developing hybrid seed of field and vegetable crops to help farmers produce more under limiting natural resources and fragile ecologies ensuring their sustainable management. Over the years, the Company has created a robust portfolio of products encompassing commercial crops – cotton and sunflower; food crops – corn, rice, bajra and jowar; vegetables – tomato, okra and chilly. The Company's premier cotton hybrids – Jadoo, Jackpot, ATM and Singha are in the forefront of the cotton seed market and are highly preferred by farmers. Jadoo is unique among the cotton hybrids with high genetic buffering capacity to withstand moisture stress. These proprietary products from Kaveri have helped cotton farmers to fetch higher yields per acre and returns on investment. Additionally, the Company's bajra hybrids – Super Boss and Fouzi; with attractive grain colour and size and capacity to withstand the onslaught of downy mildew and blast disease fetch premium in the market. Red gram varieties – Sampada and Tatkal; paddy varieties – Sampurna, Chintu and Sleek have created a niche market and are in demand. Sampurna, Kaveri's rice brand product under medium slender grain segment, has an edge over BPT-5204. Chintu under superfine grain segment is most popular.

During the year under review, we launched two new products - one is a medium early duration hybrid - KPH-272. Another one is an inbred variety Kaveri-264, a bold grain variety preferred for poha.

Based on National Evaluation process, four maize hybrids - KMH 25K60, KMH 3712, KMH 218+ and KMH 3426 and one bajra hybrid - Super Boss were gazette notified. The Varietal Identification Committee at the recently held Annual Rice Workshop at Srinagar, identified two medium slender grain rice hybrids KPH 371 and KPH 199 prelude to notification and release. The sunflower hybrids, Sunkranti and Champ (virus resistant), are in great demand in rain-fed and irrigated areas. Success has also been achieved in vegetables specially in breeding for yellow vein mosaic virus (YVMV) resistant okra hybrids.

With its diversified portfolio of products commercialized and on the shelf, the Company is well-positioned to meet the needs of the farmers. The Company's R&D has envisioned to breed the best – genetically superior and climate resilient hybrids with built in protection against stress caused by drought, heat and a host of biotic factors through an appropriate blend of molecular and conventional breeding.

Soil & plant health care

Poor farming practices weaken the soil health and make crop vulnerable to attack from pests and weeds that destabilize the harvest potential. Farmers abuse the use of pesticides, herbicides and fertilizers in an anxiety to save the crop. Excessive use of these not only impact factor productivity but also cause ecological concerns.

At Kaveri, it is our constant endeavour to develop micronutrients and bio & organic products that enrich the soil and ensure protection to crops by providing essential and balanced nutrients required for their growth and insulation against pests.

A separate division, Microteck, produces micronutrient mixtures, organic products and bio-pesticides. Over the years, the Company has developed a wide array of such products. The Company's blockbuster products are Mazik and Energy which are used as foliar spray; Captain for soil application; Ultimax+, Kick, and Microzyme are yield maximisers; Fire and Fatafat trigger the inherent plant defense mechanism. In addition to these products, Microteck division has started production of bio-pesticides that subscribe to the green norms imposed by the government.

These products are sold under the brand name Bio-guard and Bio-cense. These products are marketed through its strong network of dealers and distributors across the country.

With the growing interest in application of micro-nutrients by farmers, the demand is expected to grow year by year. And Microteck is a potential contributor to Company's revenue.

The awareness for clean and green environment, thrust on green products and demand for organic products will go up. Kaveri, with its core expertise and knowledge in this sector, will focus on expanding the horizon and endeavour to develop new and novel products that facilitate improved farming practices subscribing to sustainable intensification of agriculture in the country.

Investing in innovation

Indian agriculture sector is affected by declining factor productivity and rapidly shrinking resource base, eventually leading to spikes in production and fuelling food prices. In such a scenario, it becomes imperative to harness science of genetics and principles of breeding coupled with advances in new biology to develop crop hybrids that enhance agricultural productivity in a sustained way without harming the ecosystem and the environment.

At Kaveri, our main focus is to invest in research and development to blend traditional breeding with frontier technologies like biotechnology in order to develop superior hybrids and inbred varieties that are high yielding under minimal inputs and stress environs.

We have an array of test hybrids developed through rigorous breeding process to ensure that our products excel in performance and quality in National Evaluation Trials. The Company's continuous investment in R&D has enabled to develop superior germplasm/parental lines and hybrids that are registered with Plant Varieties and Farmers' Rights Authority (PPV&FR) to establish proprietariness of the Company.

With a rich experience of more than three decades in the seed industry, the Company has consistently enhanced its investment in R&D. The Company is conscious of the farmer needs, consumer preferences and climate change and programme the product development in tune with these changing paradigms.

As the market life of a hybrid is short (less than 10 years), the Company strives hard to innovate continuously and build "on the shelf products" to meet the diverse demands of farmers. The Company has a robust pipeline of products in the specified crops of rice, corn, bajra, jowar, cotton, sunflower and vegetable Crops, which are under development and expected to be launched in the years ahead.

Encouraged by the R&D's success in delivering knowledge driven proprietary hybrids of field and a host of vegetable crops, the Company is laying more thrust on developing hybrid rice and climate resilient heat and drought tolerant maize hybrids and sunflower hybrids resistant to bud necrosis through conjunct use of hybrid and biotechnologies. With the huge potential of hybrid rice and the scope for further growth in hybrid maize, the Company will continue to invest in its R&D to capitalize on these growth opportunities.

Seizing opportunities - Breaking new grounds

With a strong base in R&D and grip and intent to deploy the advances in biotechnology in crop improvement, success of the Company is reflected in its ability to design, develop and deliver high value premium hybrids of field and vegetable crops.

At Kaveri, we are leveraging our strength in R&D with our unmatched expertise in agri-business, to explore new opportunities in high value agriculture by way of protective cultivation of premium vegetables and herbs.

The Company has established a subsidiary company, Kexveg India Private Limited, for producing high value exotic vegetables and herbs. The subsidiary has started commercial cultivation of high value exotic Indian vegetables and European culinary herbs in an exploratory built up area of 5 hectares of mega green houses. During the year, the Company cultivated full range of Indian vegetables - tomato, cucumber, melons, and bell pepper in its farm under drip. The Company has plans to expand cultivation of green & colour capsicums, hybrid & cherry tomatoes, parthenocarpic cucumber, leafy lettuce, iceberg lettuce and basil; and culinary herbs which include chives, sage, cilantro and parsley to cater to the European market. To improve penetration in the export market, the Company is exploring new grounds.

The Company plans to double the area under protected cultivation in the next couple of years and eventually to scale up manifold in 3 to 4 years.

Letter to shareholders

GV Bhaskar Rao, Chairman and Managing Director

“ It gives me immense pleasure to inform you that the Company has registered a 90.89% growth in revenues at ₹715.83 crore, 81.19% growth in Operating profit at ₹139.44 crore and 123.51% growth in net profit at ₹129.87 crore. ”

Dear Shareholders,

The year 2012-13 was one of the difficult years for the Indian economy as it was marred by various factors such as high inflation, rising commodity prices, rupee depreciation, higher fiscal deficit, policy inaction, slowing of foreign investments, tight liquidity, higher interest rates and lower industrial productivity aside others factors. All these factors led to the decline of the GDP growth rate from 6.2% in 2011-12 to 5% in 2012-13, the lowest ever growth rate in the decade.

The year under review was a lean year for the agriculture sector owing to lower-than-normal rainfall, prolonged drought in various parts of the country and losses in acreage leading to decline in farm output. The growth of the agriculture sector contracted to just 1.9% in 2012-13 compared to the growth of 3.6% registered in the previous year.

Even as most players in the industry struggled due to deficient rainfall and subsequent decline in cropped area, Kaveri Seed bucked the trend and surged forward to grow ahead of the competition. It gives me immense pleasure to inform you that the Company has registered a 90.89% growth in revenues at ₹715.83 crore, 81.19% growth in operating profit at ₹139.44 crore and 123.51% growth in net profit at ₹129.87 crore. What pleases me the most is that despite the evident challenges, we reported profitable growth and maintained our EBITDA margins at 20.51%.

The Company's growth can be attributed to its flagship BT cotton seed brands – Jadoo and Jackpot, which together contributed to more than 50% of the revenue. As a result, the Company doubled its market share in the hybrid cotton seed segment from 5% in 2011-12 to 10% in 2012-13. The other major hybrid brands of the Company's product portfolio which includes Ekka, 3110 and Bumper in maize; Super Boss in bajra; 272 and 412 in paddy; Sunkranti and Champ in sunflower; performed well registering significant growth.

Seed the future

With growing demand from the ever rising population to produce more and more food from depleting arable land and water, India is heading to a future in which expectancy from farming will keep increasing. The initial signs of food insecurity are visible in the form of food shortages, lingering malnutrition, rising food prices and food linked inflation. This creates a challenging task for farmers to harvest more and more from less land coupled with volatile climatic cycles and challenges in crop protection.

In such adverse conditions, improving farm productivity remains the single most important factor for increasing food production. With area under cultivation remaining stagnant, it is imperative to introduce modern agricultural practices, deploy research innovations in product development and improve the yield per acre by harnessing limited resources judiciously.

Kaveri Seed is capitalizing on this very important trend to help farmers produce more by offering quality seed of hybrids genetically superior in yield, resistance to pests and tolerance to drought. In addition to this, the Company also offers micro-nutrients and bio pesticides that fortify the soil and plant health. In doing so, we are committed to meet the needs of the farmer, enhance rural income, and improve the productivity at large to feed the growing population in a sustainable way.

Growth strategy

Going ahead, we will consolidate our ascendancy in cotton, pearl millet and maize and scale up our position in paddy and sunflower. We believe that hybrid rice will be the next big growth opportunity as the farming community has become more receptive for adoption of hybrid paddy. The acreage for hybrid paddy has doubled from 1 million hectares in 2006 to more than 2.5 million hectares in 2012. We are well-positioned to capitalize on the emerging opportunity with two of our rice hybrids recommended for release and many in the various stages of evaluation in National Trials.

We have started focusing on high value olericulture by cultivating premium vegetables and culinary herbs through our new subsidiary company – Kexveg. These products are for the export market. We have a strong pipeline of hybrids of vegetable crops that will be ready for launching soon.

We will continue to invest in R&D to develop new and improved, stress resistant and climate resilient hybrids. Our hybrids in pipeline across field crops corn, cotton rice, bajra and sunflower, will keep us in good stead over the next 2-3 years.

With our strong presence in the southern market and a wide portfolio of products, we seek green growth through increasing sales from our existing products and penetrate into new markets of Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, West Bengal and Odisha.

I would like to end by thanking our people, our greatest asset, who have continuously shown their dedication and commitment towards the Company. I thank all our customers, suppliers, partners, bankers and shareholders for their continued trust in us.

Sincerely,

Management Discussion and Analysis

Economic scenario

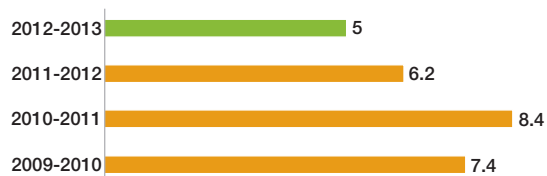

The calendar year 2012 was a difficult year for the world economy as the global GDP growth slid to 3.2% compared to 4% recorded in the previous year (Source: World Economic Outlook, IMF). The moderate growth rate in the US and rebound in Japan were set-off by contraction of the Eurozone. With the global growth slowing down, India was to fall in line. The Indian economy was marred by various factors such as high inflation, tight liquidity, rising interest rates, slowing investments, and policy inaction among others. The GDP growth rate of India slipped to a decade low of 5% during financial year 2012-13 compared to 6.2% in 2011-12.

World GDP growth (%)

Source: World Economic Outlook, IMF, April 2013

Indian GDP growth (%)

Source: Economic Survey, 2012-13

The Indian economy is mainly dominated by the agriculture sector which provides employment and livelihood to more than 65% of the population and determines the growth and sustainability of the country. During 2012-13, the growth of the agriculture sector contracted to 1.9% owing to erratic monsoon and higher input costs. The country's marginal decline in food grain production from 259 million tonne in 2011-12 to approximately 250 million tonne in 2012-13 shows the resiliency of the Indian agricultural sector (Source: Central Statistics Office).

Seed - the harbinger of change

The global population has been growing at a faster rate and crossed the 7 billion mark. This impacts access to food and adequacy of global food production and supply dynamics. The demand for cereals for humans and animal feed is expected to grow from the current 2.1 billion tonnes a year to nearly 3 billion tonnes by 2050. In order to meet such a huge demand, the production of food grains need to be accelerated through sustainable intensification of agriculture in the back drop of multiple challenges.

The use of good quality seed of improved varieties and hybrids and enhanced seed replacement rate can bring in immediate production advance of 10-15% – a quick and readily implementable option. Thus any effort to improve agricultural productivity centres on quality seed production and supply.

Indian seed industry

The Indian seed industry is the fifth largest market in the world accounting for around 4.4% of global seed trade. The present size of the Indian seed industry is estimated at around ₹7,000 crore with a production of around 40 million quintals of various kinds of seeds (Source: ASSOCHAM report). In India, hybrid seeds account for around 20% of the total seed production; of which cotton has the biggest share followed by rice at 15%, wheat at 10% and vegetables at 10%. The production of hybrids needs to be promoted aggressively to improve productivity especially in crops like rice, maize and vegetables. A recent survey by Aasocham on the size and growth of domestic seed market estimates that the total seed production of India will reach to 63 million quintals by 2015 from the current level of 40 million quintals. The major contributors to the next leg of growth of the industry is expected to come from corn, paddy and vegetables.

Growth drivers of Indian seed industry

With a population of 1.21 billion, India is the second-most populated country in the world. It is estimated that the population of the country will grow to 1.7 billion by 2050, increasing the demand for food grains. The per capita income of Indians (at current price) has increased at a CAGR of 15.92% from ₹38,084 in 2008-09 to ₹68,757 in 2012-13. With the increase in income levels, the consumption of food grains and vegetables has also increased manifold.

The government has allowed 100% FDI in agriculture sector in development and production of seeds and planting material, floriculture, horticulture, and cultivation of vegetables and mushrooms. This will attract foreign investment in the Indian agriculture sector, leading to higher investment in R&D and production of high quality, high yielding varieties and hybrids.

The shift to hybrids has helped to boost the yield of food grains from 1,023 kg/hectare in 1980-81 to 1,993 kg/hectare in 2011-12. Over the years, there has been a steep growth in the adoption of hybrids due to their higher yields. Further, the government has been playing a proactive role to promote the cultivation of hybrids by providing a subsidy.

Favorable government schemes:

- Farm credit: The government has substantially improved the availability of farm credit and increased Minimum Support Price (MSP) to improve investment in the farm sector. The annual agriculture credit target for the financial year 2013-14 has been fixed at ₹7,00,000 crore against the target of ₹5,75,000 crore in 2012-13 (source: IBEF)
- Planned expenditure: The total planned expenditure for the Department of Agriculture has increased by 18.01% from ₹17,123 crore in 2011-12 to ₹20,208 crore in 2012-13.
- Rashtriya Krishi Vikas Yojana (RKVY): Under RKVY, an outlay of ₹9,954 crore and ₹2,250 crore have been proposed for mobilizing higher investment in agriculture and the National Food Security Mission respectively.
- Krishi Vigyan Kendra (KVK): The Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR) has created a network of 630 KVKs in the country to facilitate farmers' access to agricultural technology generated by the National Agricultural Research System (NARS).
- Pulses villages: The government has launched an initiative to spend US$ 65.1 million to promote 60,000 'pulses villages' in rain-fed areas for increasing crop productivity and strengthening market linkages.
- Water shed programme: To provide relief to small and marginal farmers especially in drought prone and ecologically-stressed regions, the allocation for the Integrated Watershed Programme has been increased to ₹5,387 crore from ₹3,050 crore.

Risk management

Climate risk

Changing climate conditions such as continuous dry spell, or excessive rainfall may drastically impact commercial seed production of the Company.

The Company's diverse product portfolio of commercial crops (cotton and sunflower) food crops (corn, rice, and millets), vegetable crops and quantum of seed reserves help de-risk from any contingency. Further, the Company's hybrids with enhanced buffering capacity to withstand abiotic stress help overcome the weather aberrations.

Competition risk

In the extremely competitive seed business, cut-throat competition from peers can impact the Company's trade.

The Company's ability to innovate from long term investment in R&D for knowledge driven products and sustained quality assurance serves as impregnable barriers to the Company's business. In addition to this, the Company has an aggressive market network of around 15,000 distributors and retailers across the country which help in marketing the Company's products across the country.

Dependency risk

Dependency on any one particular product/seed may affect the growth prospects of the Company.

The Company has developed an array of wide ranging products with the judicious use of genetic wealth of germplasm in order to minimize its dependency on any single hybrid or single crop. In addition to this, the Company continuously refurbishes its product portfolio by phasing out extant products and focusing on new and improved products.

Product life-cycle risk

Technological advances at a fast pace are accelerating the innovative product development which in turn is shortening the shelf life of a product/seed.

The Company's continuous investment in Research & Development and the ability to develop an array of new product pipeline helps to mitigate the product life-cycle risk and keeps it ahead of competition.

Internal Control system

The Company has in place adequate and appropriate systems of internal controls commensurate with its size and the nature of its operations and these have broadly withstood the test of time. The systems have been designed to provide reasonable assurance with regard to recording and providing reliable financial and operational information complying with applicable statutes, safeguarding assets from unauthorized use, executing transactions with proper authorizations and ensuring compliance of corporate policies.

The internal audit is being carried out by a firm of Chartered Accountant having considerable expertise and experience. The audit is carried on a monthly basis and monthly audit reports are submitted to the management. The Audit Committee reviews the internal audit reports, statutory audit reports, the quarterly and annual financial statements and discusses all significant audit observations and follow up actions arising from them. The statutory auditors of the Company also scrutinize the internal audit reports as part of their statutory audit functions.
