Dutch expel 4 Russian spies for hack bid on UN poisoning probe

Dutch say they captured Russians trying to hack OPCW; UK accuses Russian GRU spy agency of global cyber attacks

REUTERS
London/The Hague, Oct 4

BRITAIN AND THE NETHERLANDS accused Russia of running a global campaign of cyberattacks to undermine Western democracies, including what the Dutch government described as an attempt to hack into the UN chemical weapons watchdog.

Moscow denied what its foreign ministry spokeswoman called a "diabolical perfume cocktail" of allegations by someone with a "rich imagination". But the accusations will deepen Moscow's isolation at a time when its diplomatic ties with the West have been downgraded over the poisoning of a spy in England and it is under US and European sanctions over its actions in Ukraine.

to hack into the Hague-based Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW) in April. At the time, the UN watchdog was investigating the poison used to attack an ex-spy in Britain and chemical weapons which the West says were used in Syria by Russia's ally President Bashar al-Assad.

Dutch defence minister Ank Bijleveld called on Russia to cease its cyber activities aimed at "undermining" Western democracies.

According to a presentation by the head of the Netherlands' military intelligence agency, four Russians arrived in the Netherlands on April 10 and were caught with spying equipment at a hotel located next to the OPCW headquarters.

The four Russians in the Netherlands were detained on April 13 and expelled to Russia, Dutch Major General Onno Eichelshuis said. They had planned to travel on to a laboratory in Spiez, Switzerland used by the OPCW to analyse samples, he said.

Russian military intelligence "is active here in the Netherlands... where a lot of international organisations are (based)," Eichelshuis said.

Earlier on Thursday, Britain released an assessment based on work by its National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC), which cast Russia's GRU military intelligence agency as a cyber aggressor which used a network of hackers to sow worldwide discord.

The GRU, Britain said, was almost certainly behind the BadRabbit and World Anti-Doping Agency attacks of 2017, the hack of the US Democratic National Committee (DNC) in 2016 and the theft of emails from a UK-based TV station in 2015.

"The GRU's actions are reckless and indiscriminate: they try to undermine and interfere in elections in other countries," said British For-

US charges 7 Russians for hacking and fraud

SEVEN AUTHORITIES accused the US authorities nationals of a range of hacks — on anti sports-doping groups, the international soccer governing body and Westinghouse Electric — hours after the UK and Dutch governments announced they had foiled a Russian military intelligence operation. The US outlined hacks from 2014 through May that they said were carried out by Russians aligned with the military intelligence unit known as the GRU. They targeted a number of anti-doping agencies to undermine their investigations of Russian state sponsored doping, prosecutors said in the indictment filed in federal court in Western Pennsylvania.

Three of the accused hackers indicted in the US were charged in the US in relation to hacks of Democrats emails as part of Special Counsel Robert Mueller's probe.

'Hackers behind Hillary Clinton leak now spying on Europeans'

BLOOMBERG
Washington, October 4

THE SAME RUSSIAN hackers who stole and leaked emails from Hillary Clinton's campaign in 2016 are now spying on new targets outside the United States, including military sites and governments in Europe and a South America government, according to Symantec.

The internet security firm said in a blog post published Thursday that a Kremlin-backed hacking group known as APT28 has also spied on an embassy belonging to an Eastern European country and a "well-known" international organisation in the two years since the US presidential election.

The report, which didn't describe the group's activity in detail or name its targets to maintain victim confidentiality, said the hackers gained an "unprecedented amount of attention" for their work in 2016 and have since become "mainly motivated by intelligence gathering."

APT 28 is "a technically capable group of people whose mandate is changing based on the geopolitical will of their handlers," said Vikram Thakur, a senior technical director at Symantec. The same group appears to be active in the US ahead of midterm elections, according to reports.

Motor racing-Canadian group led by Stroll paid $117 m for Force India

REUTERS
London, October 4

RACING POINT, A consortium led by Canadian billionaire Lawrence Stroll, paid 90 million pounds ($117 million) to take over Formula One racing team Force India in August, an administrators report shows.

The report also revealed the parlous finances of the Vijay Mallya-owned team at the time they were taken into administration last July.

The Silverstone-based team had only 240,000 pounds in its account on July 27 while outstanding gross wages due to be paid at the end of that month totalled 2.2 million pounds.

The estimated funding requirement for August, including staff salaries, was 9.6 million with "no meaningful income" forecast to be received. Santander had frozen the company's bank accounts on July 25. FRP said engine providers Mercedes were owed 13.7 million pounds while representatives of Mexican driver Sergio Perez were demanding payment of $4.01 million. Supplier Formtech was also owed 2.3 million pounds.

Indian businessman Mallya, who is London-based and fighting an extradition request from authorities in India, previously owned 42.5 percent of the team with a similar shareholding in the hands of India's Sahara Group.

Indian banks seeking to recover about $1.4 billion in loans made to Mallya's defunct Kingfisher Airlines obtained an order freezing shares in the team's holding company last November.

FRP said sponsor BWT provided an immediate unsecured loan of five million pounds to ensure July wages were paid, a sum repaid by a further 15 million loan from Stroll's Racing Point following an exclusivity agreement on August 7.

The administrators received more than 20 expressions of interest in the team, and had needed to move fast given the financial situation and approaches to key members of staff from rivals.

After an Aug. 6 deadline there were five bids left but Racing Point, led by the father of Williams F1 driver Lance Stroll, were the only ones aiming to rescue the company as a going concern.

Racing Point offered to acquire the business and assets for 90 million pounds in the event that a share purchase could not be completed in time, as proved to be the case.

Seeking Brexit deal, EU eyes compromise on Irish border

REUTERS
Brussels, October 4

EUROPEAN UNION NEGOTIATORS see the outline of a compromise on the Irish border issue which is holding up Brexit talks, EU sources told Reuters on Thursday, raising hopes that a new British offer could unlock a deal.

Prime Minister Theresa May has promised new proposals and sketchy details seen so far have found a tentative welcome in Brussels as the sides push for a deal with 176 days to Brexit. "This is a step in the right direction," said one EU source close to the negotiations. "It makes finding a compromise possible."

A second source said EU negotiator Michel Barnier was looking at where the bloc could make improvements to what it has offered London as both sides race to overcome the remaining obstacles to a Brexit deal before a high-stakes EU summit on Oct. 17-18.

"We are definitely engaging with Britain" on ways to break the deadlock over what is known as the "Irish backstop", said an EU diplomat following the negotiations. Barnier himself said negotiations were in their final stages and the EU was working "hand-in-hand" with the Irish government.

"To agree to any deal, we need to have a legally sound backstop solution for Ireland and Northern Ireland," Barnier said after meeting Irish Prime Minister Leo Varadkar.

Britain has yet to formally deliver its new ideas, Varadkar said, notably about a fall-back option to keep the whole of the United Kingdom in a customs union with the EU.

Varadkar said Dublin was open in principle to anything that helps escape extensive Irish border checks but voiced caution on an all-UK customs union, which the EU has once rejected before.

The EU is insisting on a "backstop" clause in any withdrawal treaty to avoid erecting border posts between the British province of Northern Ireland and EU member Ireland if London and Brussels cannot agree a trade pact for the future.

A seamless border is largely of the settlement which largely ended decades of violence in the province.

Signals that the EU was willing to engage with the new plan taking shape in London sent the pound rising against the dollar. Varadkar also met EU summit chair Donald Tusk in Brussels. Tusk urged May to put a round of angry rhetoric behind and get on to sealing an agreement that would preserve peace in Ireland.

Asia millionaires groove to disco after betting on soccer

ASIA'S LEGIONS OF wealthy investors are getting a chance to profit from the boom in music streaming as Spotify and its peers gain popularity.

Swiss-Asia Holding Pte, which previously marketed soccer-linked notes to clients, aims to raise $100 million for securities linked to royalties generated from song rights, according to Anthony S. Casey, investment manager for the Singapore-based company. Investors in the soccer product — notes backed by soccer clubs' TV rights — are expected to switch to the new security now that the old ones have matured, he said.

The Music Notes have already been bought by DBS Private Bank, Julius Baer Group and Bank of Singapore for Asian clients. Even as rising interest rates prompt wealthy people with more options for investment, there's still demand to diversify into correlated assets that aren't correlated to broader market volatility.

"It's hard to get stability in a portfolio these days," said Ian Winter, founder and director of Quest Exploration & Drilling in the Philippines, who invested $250,000. "The Music note offers a hedge against volatile markets with Brexit, a strong dollar and trade war" on the horizon, he said.
